

REAL ESTATE by DESIGN

I grew up in the Auburn area where my father was a teacher at Placer High School.

I continued my education with a degree from Long Beach State and later a certificate in screenwriting from UCLA, where I directed and wrote several documentaries.

Along with raising two boys, ages 6 and 9, I became heavily involved in real estate when my husband Matt (a surveyor) and I brought our property to its full zoning potential. Together we took on the challenge of converting our main house into a duplex and supervised the major renovation of an outbuilding into a "granny flat."

I have explored the many facets of design while running a successful business in which I create and produce unique handbags. I have combined these skills with my real estate knowledge and joined the amazingly successful HomeTown Realtors organization.

If you are looking for a new home, have a home you are considering selling, or have an interest in real estate for investment, call me and I will show you how my "Real Estate by Design" method will help you!
